

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOL. XVI.

STANFORD, KY., TUESDAY, JANUARY 15, 1889.

NO. 97.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Rev. Benj. Adams, a Methodist preacher, was murdered in Morgan county, Ala.

—The reorganized Church of Jesus Christ (Latter-day Saints) will hold a world conference, beginning April 9, at St. Joseph, Mo.

—Rev. Morris Evans began a protracted meeting at the Methodist church last night. He will continue to preach through this week and next week will be assisted by some good preachers, but who it is not yet definitely known.

Beecher's old church is in a bad way. The receipts for the year were $20,000, while the expenses exceeded that sum about $2,000. At one period in the history of Plymouth, during the life of Henry Ward Beecher, the receipts from the annual sale of pews alone amounted to $28,000.

—Rev. H. C. Morrison seems to have undertaken a big job for so small a man with so small a paper as his "Old Methodist." He may be able to effect a general reformation, but some of these evils will exist till the glad millennium dawns. For hear him: "We declare war against the whisky traffic in all of its forms; against the theatre, it matters not what the play is or who is on the stage; against the card table, whether in the gambling den or in the parlor of professed Christians; against the dance at any time, place or manner of taking hold. We believe all these things to be emissaries of the devil and intend to fight them as long as there is a grain of powder in our magazine, and will never be taken alive."

The Chesapeake & Ohio Route.

The schedule of this great trunk railway appears in this issue and reference to it will show what quick time is made over it to all points East. It is by far the shortest route to Washington and without question the most picturesque. The scenery along the Kanawha, New and Greenbrier rivers, and through the Allegheny and Blue Ridge Mountains is almost incomparable; the line runs the finest Pullman Buffet cars that are made and the ride through the most interesting section is made in the day time, affording an excellent chance to view it. Those intending to visit Washington during the inauguration should examine into the advantages of this route, of which the half has not been told. The rate will be one fare for the round-trip, good, going March 2nd and 3rd, and returning on the 10th. For further information write or address W. W. Monroe, Gen. Pass. Agent, Lexington, Ky., and ask for ticket book N. N. & M. V. Co., the C. & O. Route.

—The farm which Henry Reed sold to Frank Champ, at $72.50 per acre, was sold by postmaster John A. Miller in 1885, to Alex. McClintock, for $127.15 per acre. Mr. McClintock sold it to the Porter Bros. for about $90 and their assignee sold it at public sale at a very depressing time for $80 per acre. —Bourbon News.

—The great premier at Elmhurst, Chicago, has not only headed the winning sides more years than any horse now in the stud in America, but he also has the honor of heading all living sires by the amount won by his produce, since 1870, when his get first appeared in public, his sons and daughters have won 1,000 races and a total of $820,155.42. He is now 21 years old, but still shows no signs of coming dissolution.

—Peach-blow cheeks and rose lips deep blue-eyes and curly auburn hair, are possessed by the lovely girl whose face adorns Hood's Sarsaparilla Calendar for '89. She wears a dainty bonnet and the head is cut out so as to look quite realistic. Hood's Calendar is easily the best of the kind, and like the Sarsaparilla it represents, is a good thing to have in the house. The pad harmonizes with the exquisite array of color above, while the dates are easily read. Hood's Calendar may be obtained of your druggist or by sending six cents in stamps to C. E. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

—An Artist's Liar. Thomas Robinson, an artistic painter, was painting a barn near Turkeyfoot last week. A large hog was lying near, so he took his brush and painted a circle, making the hog appear hollow. He then went to dinner. On returning he found 37 rabbits and five squirrels lying on the ground near by. dead. They had been scared up by hunters and tried to take refuge in the log, but instead, they knocked their heads out. The boys in the country should try this. —Cynthiana Democrat.

—The Wood Growers Association, which claims that it defeated Cleveland, has presented a schedule greatly increasing the tariff on wood and demands that it shall be adopted.

Climate for Consumptives.

The several climates of Florida, Colorado and California have each been prescribed for sufferers from lung disease, yet thousands of the natives in those States die of this fatal ailment. A far more reliable remedy is to be had in every drug store in the land and one that can be used at home, a remedy which is sold by druggists under the manufacturers' positive guarantee that taken in time and given a fair trial will effect a cure or money paid for it will be promptly returned. We refer to that world-famed remedy for consumption (lung or lung disease) known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is the only remedy for this terrible disease possessed of such superior curative properties as to warrant its manufacturers in selling it under a guarantee.

Don't think, and blow, and spit, but use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is druggists.

FARM AND TRADE ITEMS.

—Cedar posts for sale. Jos. Ballou.

—Bailey Hill had a valuable horse to die from pneumonia Friday.

—A big lot of baled timothy hay for sale. Apply to Danl. Stagg, Jr.

—J. M. Hall sold to B. O. McLean a bunch of 2-year-old mules at $80.

—D. N. Prewitt bought of Will Alexander a pair of work mules for $200.

—A false report regarding the crop of 1888 sent wheat down to $1.03 at Chicago.

—W. A. Field & Lee, of Danville, sold to D. N. Prewitt 100 scrub sheep at 21 cents.

—For Sale. A lot of strictly nice yearling cotton mules, in good order. B. W. Vialnes.

—J. H. Taylor bought of West End parties 25 head of yearling mules at from $50 to $70.

—J. L. Cogger bought 1,000 barrels of corn from Davis Bros. at $1.75 per barrel. —Midway Clipper.

—A. T. Nunnally shipped to Cincinnati Saturday a car-load of shoats for which he paid 4 cts.

—For Sale. 100 bushels of nice, clean clover seed and about 20 bushels of timothy seed. Root & Carter.

—A. T. Nunnally bought for Tennessee party 12 yearling mules from different parties in this county at $60 to $87.

—Mules are being shipped from this county to the South at the rate of a car-load a day and still the supply is not exhausted.

—A. T. Nunnally leaves to-day for Atlanta, Ga., with a car-load of cotton mules, which he bought in this county at $90 to $130.

The cattle market remains dull. The price here for 1,000 to 1,200 pound cattle is 31, and lighter grades at 25 and 30. —Somerset Reporter.

—J. P. King bought of parties in the East End a lot of mountain cattle at 21 cents and sold to Robert Land a pair of buggy horses for $235.

—J. C. Phillips bought this week of Finley & McMillen, of Georgetown, 26 mules, 24 of which were mares, at $115 each. —Lebanon Enterprise.

—Over $4,000 worth of mules were sold in Hardin Co. last week to Tennessee parties. John Coombs sold 16 head at $105 a head, J. Boyd 22 head for $2,200 and McGinn & Watkins 21 head at $2,180. —News.

—To Stockmen. —We are authorized by the Secretary, Mr. W. J. Lyle, to hold the Kentucky Stock Farm, a splendid paper published in the interest of the trotting horse, with our paper, at $3.50, thus saving you 50 cents in the price of the two.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

—Mrs. William Pepples, aged 65, died Sunday at her home near Halls Gap, of old age, in connection with other infirmities. The remains were interred in Buffalo Cemetery yesterday.

—Mr. J. J. Tate, a prominent business man of Casey, and for several terms sheriff of that county, died suddenly Thursday last. He was an honest and upright man and his death will cause a general regret. He was a brother of our townsman, Mr. W. P. Tate.

—In the 58th year of his age, of erysipelas and divers other diseases, MR. WALTER FIELDS, Sr., of this county, died last Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Kate Dudderar, with whom he has lived for the last few years. During Mr. Fields' long life he never gave his life to God, but those who were best acquainted with him speak of him as a man of high morals and far above doing those things which he thought wrong. He was married three times and seven children survive him, his last wife preceding him to the grave quite a number of years. His children, whom he loved and were justly proud of him and have shown their appreciation of a loving father by living the straight-forward life he taught them by word and example to lead. During his declining years, his constitution was so racked with bodily infirmities, that his mind began to weaken and at the time of his death it had faded him entirely. Although old and decrepit, his latter years proved the devotion of his children, who have supplied his every want and who watched by his bedside with eager eyes, hoping to see some improvement in their father who was gradually crossing the river into, we hope, a better world. His remains will be buried in Buffalo Cemetery this morning at 10 o'clock, after a short service at the grave by Rev. John Bell Gilson.

HUSTONVILLE.

—Miss Belle Bascand, of Missouri, whose mother was of the old Walker family, of this county, is spending a few days with relatives here.

—The editor's candor is very generally deplored and the public sympathy in this community evidently sincere. The "cause" of the trouble is, just now, a warmly controverted question exceeding in interest the old investigation as to "Who struck Billy Patterson" and likely to be as long unsettled.

—At an exhibition of our colored school on Friday night, two of the young bloods, Ad Clark—a former lieutenant of Dr. Brown and more recently an inmate of Sam Owens' sanatorium—and Lage Cooper or Duke who is just beginning to assert himself, both of the colored candidacy for penitentiary—got up a side show in which they exchanged a few shots without effect except on the nerves of the ladies. The city authorities took no notice and the fierce belligerents are probably practicing for the next demonstration.

—Nothing but the ingenious charge of abandoning the editor in the day of his enforced quietness could induce me to transgress with the true confession that "there is nothing to write about." No visitors to chronicle, no marriages in contemplation, no big trades effected, no capitalists blown up, no decent sized crimes committed. We are in most uneventful and unassuming state of society. The only two events of interest are the arrival of Dr. Price from Stanford and the transfer of Wilkins to Stanford. The latter goes for the laundry in a bag from Gill Cowan, the former comes on professional business, probably!

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—Miss Theresa Emmell, a worthy young lady whose home was in Stanford last year, was married at her father's, near Elizabethtown, last week, to Mr. Charles Perry, a prosperous young farmer.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, itchy humors, chilblains, corns, and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by A. R. Penny, Stanford, Ky.

The Verdict Unanimous.

A. H. Salt, druggist, Bippis, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles and was cured of Rheumatism to years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Belleville, Ohio, affirms: "The best-selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only half-dollar a bottle at A. H. Penny's drug store.

Is Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: Mr. C. M. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Aches of Lungs and friends and physicians pronounced me in incurable consumption. Begun taking Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, and am now on my third bottle, and able to do the work on my farm. It's the finest medicine ever made." Jose Middleway, (Leavitt, Ohio, says: "Had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption I would have died of Lung Trouble. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at A. R. Penny's drug store.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Mr. John Reid and wife, nee Miss Bessie Franklin, of Tullahoma, Tenn., are spending a few days with the family of Mr. W. B. Robinson, of this city. Mr. Reid was formerly a resident of Danville and now brings his young and beautiful bride to see the land of his birth, of which he, like all true Kentuckians, is so justly proud. Mr. Reid is indeed a fortunate man in the possession of a lovely bride and in addition to this can claim this as the State of his nativity.

—Mr. W. R. Marrs and Miss Sam Anderson, both of this city, surprised their many friends Thursday last by quietly driving over to Danville, where, in the parlors of Fletcher's Hotel, they were married. Rev. J. C. Randolph was the officiating minister. After the wedding the parties returned to this place and are now at home to their friends at the residence of Mrs. Stephen Marrs, the bridegroom's mother. We tender our best wishes and trust the future may bring to them but few of the sorrows and all the joys attending a life of prosperity and happiness.

—Mr. Wood Herring, aged about 19, and son of James Herring, Sr., of this county, died at his father's residence, of inflammation of the stomach and bowels, on the morning of the 11th. The body was interred in Lancaster Cemetery on Friday, after service at the Christian church, conducted by Elder C. C. Cline. George A. Fentress, who was for many years a resident of this town, died near Bryantville, this county, Friday, 11th, and his remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at this place Saturday. The large number of friends who came to pay the last tribute of respect attested the fact that he had lost none of those sterling qualities of mind and heart, which drew to him as friends so many of our people when he resided here.

—That the patrons of your paper may not be disappointed when they read the Lancaster letter, we deem it our duty to inform them that the regular correspondence is away from home, a fact that they will most likely discover before reaching this point. Yes, the gentle, genuine John Woodcock, one of the few who make it their mission on earth to make happier and better the lives of those with whom they are associated, is spending a season with Mrs. Barnes and his family at Naples, Fla., and so we take advantage of the opportunity to lay this little wreath of laurel on the brow of one who is sweetly remembered as when the shadows came and whose unselfish friendship has so often been manifested in deeds of loving kindness. And now, dear John, if this should meet your eye in far away Naples by the sea, we humbly beg pardon for thus parading before the public the virtues which you so modestly attempt to conceal, and when you return the "sun will shine brighter in the old Kentucky home" to many others besides your own loved ones.

Tahage is the pride of the American pulpit, but the hearts of the poultrymen leap with joy at the mention of "Tanner's" chicken Cholera Cure. Sold "no cure, no pay" by McRoberts & Stagg.

PUBLIC SALE OF A VALUABLE FARM.

On Saturday, Feb. 2, 1889, Upon the premises of Andrew C. Lee, Sheriff of this county, will be sold at public auction the highest bidder, all the land in the town of Lancaster, Garard County, Ky., situated immediately upon the Stanford and Tullahoma turnpike, 1 miles from Stanford and one fourth mile of Maxwell Station, on the Knoxville Branch of the L. & N. R. Co. in Lincoln county. The farm is well fenced, has upon it a substantial dwelling, an excellent barn, and other suitable buildings, and is in a high state of cultivation. The title is free simple, with general warranty will be made by the purchaser. Possession will be given as soon as the first payment is made. Terms: Cash half, balance in 1 and 2 years equal installments, bearing interest from date. If the farm should not be sold, it will be returned to the year 1888. W. L. FLETCHER, Auctioneer.

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS, New York

W. P. WALTON.

The periodical interview with "Gen." Bradley by his lieutenant, Col. Woodford Dunlap, appears under the head of a Millersburg dispatch. It describes the "general" as very brainy man, with dark brown eyes, which look directly into yours while talking, below the medium height and with well developed digestive organs. He is giving the usual credit for nearly revolutionizing Kentucky and is described as the big Goliath generally. Of course he thinks he thinks that Kentucky will go republican in 1891 and that when the South is educated from the fund provided by the national government under the provisions of the Blair bill, there will be general hegira to the republican ranks, as education alone is necessary to this most devoutly wished consummation. That education is not a man a republican is not backed by the facts. Here in Kentucky that party is largely, we might say almost entirely, composed of ignorant negroes and fully as ignorant whites and but for these, whose prejudices men like the "general" impose upon, he himself would be ashamed of the corporal's guard that would surround him. The "general" is much given to talking with his mouth, but he is a monstrous clever fellow as he is a devilish sly one, and we like him not a little and wish him a fat office and smooth sailing for the next four years. So here's to you, "general," and your trusty lieutenant, you make a good pair and one the average seeker after pie will do well to draw to.

The republicans will never agree to it, but the plan of electing postmasters and other officers directly connected with the people has many reasons to recommend it, in addition to those given by the Louisville Times below. It would always secure the most popular and acceptable men to those most interested and insure the political party predominating in a locality the offices that should belong to it. The plan has been tried at a number of places during the last four years and worked well. The Times says: The United States has 57,371 post-offices and all postmasters should be elected by the people of the vicinage. This would give the President more time to think about statesmanship, and require less of his time for politics, besides, we would have upon purity and independence in the Federal Administration and our National contests would be less embittered. The closing of postmasters, district attorneys, United States marshals and collectors of internal revenue by the people direct would be the very best civil service reform ever invented.

The radicals have already begun to mature plans for their perpetuation of power. Sherman takes the lead by presenting a bill in the Senate, providing for the election of Republican Congressmen which is to be done through State Canvassing boards, to be appointed by Gen. Harrison, when president, and to appoint judges and Registrars of Election, who will hold their office for six years, or two years into the next administration. The days of returning boards and Liza Pinkston are passed, we hope, and we have confidence that the people will not submit to their return.

The Columbia Spectator says a petition is being circulated asking Congress to increase Gen. Frank Wolford's pension to $50. We believe Gen. Fry is getting $100 a month for deafness alleged to have been caused by service in the war, although he is physically sound and able to attend to any kind of business. On the other hand, Gen. Wolford, who did much more for his country, gets a small sum, notwithstanding he was terribly wounded and still suffers from its effects. No wonder is it that President Cleveland recommended a more just and uniform system of pensions.

An exchange says that Gen. Harrison is said to have told a newspaper correspondent that he had not yet determined upon a single member of his cabinet. It has been determined for him, however, that Blaine shall be his Secretary of State and he will have to march to the music, whether he likes it or not. Blaine is going to run the incoming administration, even with a higher hand than he did Garfield's.

The Dead Mute, published at the Danville Institution, is greatly enlarged and improved. The price has been increased to 75 cents a year, which is cheap for such a bright little paper. Much of the writing and all of the typesetting and press work are done by the pupils.

The prohibitionists scored a victory in New Hampshire, the constitutional convention adopting by a vote of 193 to 131, an amendment prohibiting the manufacture and sale of all intoxicating liquors, "except cider."

The wife of Ben Harrison, of Indianapolis, has secured a divorce from him. Don't stand agast, dear reader. It is not the president-elect that is spoken of but another fellow in the same city bearing the same name.

Mr. L. V. Dore writes that he did herea College a very great injustice in our issue of the 8th, and refers us to President Fairchild's letter which appears in the last Richmond Register relative to the war among the races there. We admit that we have no great love for an institution conducted on the plan that herea is, but we would do it no injustice intentionally so we give space to the most of the president's letter, which is as follows: "There was no rebellion," nor any thought of one. A few white young men, by mistake, thought they had permission to organize a separate white table, and began efforts in that direction. A few colored students sought to defeat the effort by sitting at the same table. The colored boy who got the worst of it sits there still. The war outside was a war of words. No knives or other weapons were used or seen, and there is no proof of their existence. No oath was uttered; there were threats and might have been blows had not a professor accidentally appeared. No subordinate teacher had anything to do with it. Instead of a temporary truce there is perfect quiet, and sincere regret on the part of the few participants. Having spent the most of my life in schools, I know of none more easily governed than this, of which I have been president almost 25 years."

Matrons continue very much mixed in West Virginia. The Senate, which stands 13 democrats to 13 republicans, remains unorganized and the struggle seems no nearer the end than at the start. The republicans are vainly endeavoring to wrench from the democrats the State, which was born of a political rape upon fair old Virginia during the war. The results were as disappointing as the act was reprehensible and the new State soon proved its democratic as her outraged mother. The republicans think they have it at last, but if they secure it, it will only be by the most diabolical frauds. The struggle involves the choice of a governor, the selection of a United States Senator, and, incidentally, the representation of two Congressional districts.

The Capital emphatically denies the rumor started by enemies that trouble between Dr. John D. Woods and some of his employees caused him to resign the office of public printer. In his valedictory the doctor states that he had fully decided to retire from public life and did not care longer to be separated from his family, who had moved to their home near Bowling Green. He has now joined the noble army of honorary hounded grangers, but as Col. Johnson says he won't wear the ink off his fingers before he will be editing another paper. This is too bright a pen to be allowed to lie idle and we only hope that his retirement is but temporary.

The Louisville Commercial does not take kindly to our nomination of Judge M. J. Durham for governor, because it thinks he is too old and is still living in another generation. It thinks Kentucky needs a young, liberal, progressive, able man at the head of State affairs, one who will encourage by his suggestions and inspire by his presence. Judge Durham may not be as young as he used to be, nor as young as the Commercial's favorite, but he is as far from being an old fog as the next one, and should be entered the race he would make it lively for any of the contestants.

The prohibition organ, the Voice, is going to prosecute Quay, Dudley and Clarkson, of the republican committee, for conspiring with a thief to secure for them the paper's mail list and then paying him for its delivery to them. It is a pretty big undertaking to try to land these scoundrels where they belong in a penitentiary, and while all honest people will wish the paper success, they yet have grave doubts that the rescuers will get their deserts. The penitentiary seems to have been devised for negroes and poor white folks.

The Palmetto Standard in view of the fact that the admission of new States is now the order of the day, recalls the project of making a State out of Jackson's purchase in Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi, to be known as the State of Jackson. The sentiment was pretty strong for it 15 or 20 years ago, but as it is solidly democratic it is not likely to become a State soon. That's not the kind of States the republicans are attempting.

Is common with all large owners of the precious gems, we feel very grateful that the republican State has agreed to a reduction of the tariff on pearls from 25 to 10 percent. In the meantime the necessities of life continue at the old war rate. The republican party is a wonderful party, but it cannot be accused of being the party of the people.

All the English papers in Louisville are united on the same question at last—that the teaching of German must be eliminated from the curriculum of the public schools. The issue is forced by the report of the school board that it is $35,000 in debt. A good English education ought to satisfy the average common school pupil.

A STATE treasurer is to be elected next August, though so far no candidates have been announced. For various and sundry reasons, we are authorized to state that "Honest" (God save the mark) Hick Tate will not again claim an endorsement.

That excellently edited paper, the Owensboro Inquirer, has a well timed article against the candidacy of Thomas G. Moore, deputy clerk of the court of appeals, for that office or for any other person who profited by the election of that miserable specimen of humanity, Tom Henry, who farmed the office out and whose disgraceful acts before and since he was honored with it has done more to injure the democracy than many other things combined. We fully agree with Messrs. Ford and Givens and think Mr. Moore should receive the cold shoulder of every one who knows the facts of the deal.

A DELEGATION of 22 Virginia republicans, remnants, most of them, representing the 10 Congressional districts of the State, called on Harrison Saturday to urge the claims of their master, Mahone, for a position in the cabinet. The president-elect heard them attentively, but made no promises, contenting himself with saying he was glad they felt so much interest in his selection of a cabinet. Mahone is nothing if not a rascal, still he is a pretty fair representative of the leading Southern republicans, and if Mr. Harrison likes that kind of a man, we rather think he is the kind of a man he would like.

The State press is placing under obligations that we will never be able to repay, should we live to be as old as Methuselah and put in 24 hours a day trying. A full edition of this paper could not contain all the good things that have been said about us and remissions could not begin to express the gratitude we feel toward the dear fellows, whose hearts seem to have run off with their heads. Thank you all, brethren, and remember that we are always yours to command.

JAMES MARLEY is back at his old post on the Mt. Vernon Signal, imparting to it the old-time flavor. For a man of his inches Jim gets in about as much work as any in the country. He is depot agent and telegraph operator, editor, manager of a furniture factory, correspondent of the INTERIOR JOURNAL and several daily newspapers, and perhaps a half dozen other things that we do not now recall. Strange to say, too, he makes a success of each and Marley's approbation in all.

Col. E. POLK JOHNSON returns thanks through his paper, the Frankfort Capital, for the numerous expressions of esteem for him called forth by his appointment to the office of public printer and binder, but adds that he fears that he is not the altogether good fellow they have united in making him out to be. This is another evidence of the Colonel's modesty. It would be hard indeed for the press to say anything good about the "old man" that is not deserved.

TWENTY-EIGHT days that of the back and without change of place further than the body from the waist up could wiggle and twist, ought to have made us, it would seem, a necker man than Moses, a more patient one than Job and a more pious man than Bro. Barnes. But has it? Ask the old women and Dr. Peyton; we are not a competent witness.

Fearing that he would compromise himself and get off some of the rough edges of bitter feeling he has for the South, Murat Halstead has declined to accept the invitation of the Louisville Commercial Club to its banquet. It is well. Murat should not be allowed this side of the Ohio river.

JOHN S. WISE, who hates Mahone like his Satanic majesty does, holy water, dropped down to Indianapolis the other day and put a spider in the slumping the 22 degenerate Virginians had prepared for the little boss and served before Harrison.

REN BROADLEY has recovered from his long illness and is himself again as the columns of the Louisville Truth testify. There is no more versatile writer on the press than Mr. Ridgely, whose bubbling humor shows in everything he writes.

The periodical interview with "Gen." Bradley by his lieutenant, Col. Woodford Dunlap, appears under the head of a Millersburg dispatch. It describes the "general" as very brainy man, with dark brown eyes, which look directly into yours while talking, below the medium height and with well developed digestive organs. He is giving the usual credit for nearly revolutionizing Kentucky and is described as the big Goliath generally. Of course he thinks he thinks that Kentucky will go republican in 1891 and that when the South is educated from the fund provided by the national government under the provisions of the Blair bill, there will be general hegira to the republican ranks, as education alone is necessary to this most devoutly wished consummation. That education naturally makes a man a republican is not backed by the facts. There in Kentucky that party is largely, we might say almost entirely, composed of ignorant negroes and fully as ignorant whites and but for these, whose prejudices make the "general" impose upon him, he would be ashamed of the corporal's guard that would surround him. The "general" is much given to talking with his mouth, but he is a monstrous clever fellow as he is a devilish sly one, and we like him not a little and wish him a fat office and smooth sailing for the next four years. So here's to you, "general," and your trusty lieutenant, you make a good pair and one the average seeker after pie will do well to draw to.

The republicans will never agree to it, but the plan of electing postmasters and other officers directly connected with the people has many reasons to recommend it, in addition to those given by the Louisville Times below. It would always secure the most popular and acceptable men to those most interested and insure the political party predominating in a locality the offices that should belong to it. The plan has been tried at a number of places during the last four years and worked well. The Times says: The United States has 57,374 post-offices and all postmasters should be elected by the people of the vicinities. This would give the President more time to think about statesmanship, and require less of his time for politics. Besides, we would have more purity and independence in the Federal Administration and our National contests would be less embittered. The choosing of postmasters, district attorneys, United States marshals and collectors of internal revenue by the people direct would be the very best civil service reform ever invented.

The reds have already begun to mature plans for their perpetuation of power. Sherman takes the lead by presenting a bill in the Senate, providing for the election of Republican Congressmen which is to be done through State canvassing boards, to be appointed by Gen. Harrison, when president, and to appoint judges and Registrars of Election, who will hold their office for six years, or two years into the next administration. The days of returning boards and Liza Pinkston are passed, we hope, and we have confidence that the people will not submit to their return.

The Columbia Spectator says a petition is being circulated asking Congress to increase Gen. Frank Wolford's pension to $50. We believe Gen. Fry is getting $100 a month for deafness alleged to have been caused by service in the war, although he is physically sound and able to attend to any kind of business. On the other hand, Gen. Wolford, who did much more for his country, gets a small sum, notwithstanding he was terribly wounded and still suffers from its effects. No wonder it is that President Cleveland recommended a more just and uniform system of pensions.

An exchange says that Gen. Harrison is said to have told a newspaper correspondent that he had not yet determined upon a single member of his cabinet. It has been determined for him, however, that Blaine shall be his Secretary of State and he will have to march to the music, whether he likes it or not. Blaine is going to run the incoming administration, even with a higher hand than he did Garfield's.

—A lustful brute outraged a lady near Birmingham and then killed her seven-year-old child because he called for help. Bloodhounds are on his track and shoot work will be made of him if caught.

—The jury in the case of Trans. Hodges vs. Hon. John W. Langley, on a suit for damages for alleged defamation of character in the United States Circuit Court at Frankfort, failed to agree and were discharged.

—Four members of one family in Wellington County, Ontario, have been killed by falling trees in the same piece of forest within three months. The balance of them will keep out of those woods if they are wise.

—A National German-American Prohibition league was organized in Chicago. Its object is to create a sentiment among German Americans in favor of a total abstinence and legal prohibition, but it will be hard to do.

—The Vanderbilts received last year only $14,000,000 to be added to their interest account, but as the winter has been a phenomenally wild one they hope to pull through without an appeal to public charity. Louisville Times.

—Richard Gary, of Hopkinsville, was told by his father that he must settle down and go to work, to which he replied that he would die first. He put a bullet through his brain and Richard's himself again in the prospect of a long rest.

—The loss of life by the cyclone which swept over Southern Pennsylvania last week is not so great as reported, though 50 or more persons were killed at Reading and 15 at Pottsville. The loss to property there and elsewhere was simply terrible.

—The father of William B. Foster, Jr., who recently robbed the New York Produce Exchange gratuity fund of nearly $200,000, sent the custodians of the fund a check for $50,000, explaining that it was his son's share of the fortune which he intended to divide among his children.

—The following were elected directors of the First National Bank of London: Vincent Boring, R. M. Jackson, George Givens, Joseph Sampson, J. V. Elliott, C. V. Anderson, W. A. Pugh, J. A. Craft and J. W. Alcorn. The directors elected Vincent Boring president of the bank and R. M. Jackson vice-president.

—Andrew Ferguson, an old colored man of this city, has donated to the Presbytery of Louisville property valued at $10,000. It was his all and has been accumulated through a lifetime of toil. He is 70 years of age and the gift leaves him dependent upon his exertions for the means of subsistence. Courier-Journal.

—The Department of Agriculture reports last year's crop of corn at 1,287,790,000 bushels, valued at the farm at $477,561,580 or $30,000,000 more than 1887. The wheat aggregate is 114,880,000 bushels, valued at $28,124,000, $31,000,000 more than the year before. The oats crop was 707,750,000 bushels and worth $7,000,000 less than in 1887.

The president of the Cumberland Valley Land Co., Judge Vincent Bonning, called a meeting of his directors here Saturday to obtain instructions with regard to the sale of the popular timber privileges, for which there is now great demand, on the many thousands of acres of land owned by the company in Cumberland and Harlan counties. Having the utmost confidence in his business sagacity it was decided that he should deem it seemed most advantageous to the company. President Bonning has given great attention to the purchase of these lands and it goes without saying that he has done well in their selection.

I am greatly in need of money and would be pleased if my customers, those knowing themselves indebted to me, would call and settle their old accounts. M. F. Elkin.

The Stanford Roller Mills, Supt. W. N. Potts tells us, put in a steamer last week for the purpose of steaming the wheat and thereby making the skin tougher and causing it to come off more evenly. Mr. Potts never lets any improvement escape his attention.

HAVING bought of Mr. A. T. Nunnally his livery business and added considerably to it, I am now prepared to furnish first-class turnouts on the shortest notice. I will always be found at my stable and rigs can be obtained night as well as day. It will be my aim to treat all alike and ask a share of the patronage of all. Will also board horses by the day or month. L. M. Bruce.

The little boy, Harry Baker, who was 8 or in the hip a few months ago while he with his sister was trying to scare away a tramp, who had tried to get into the house in the absence of Mr. Baker, who lives near Junction City, an account of which we gave at the time of its happening, is thought to be in a dangerous condition. He has been gradually growing worse since the accident and the local physicians have failed to do much for him. He has not yet healed, and found a lot of shattered bones. These they took out, but the boy, whose condition is broken down from such suffering as he has had to bear, will not likely recover from the operation. This is a peculiarly sad case, as the discharge was from the gun his sister held in her hand, and the little boy was holding up a window for her to shoot out. It is another instance where the tramp nuisance has done serious damage and again it is proven that a coat of tar and feathers should be applied to the worthless scoundrels.

In the light we look at the newspaper business we can see as plainly as the Babylonians at the Feast of Belshazzar saw the handwriting on the wall that it is our duty, as solemn as any other obligation, to give the news which we think will interest our readers. This, we know, we occasionally fall short of doing. We consider sales, business changes and the like as matter both entertaining to our readers and helpful to the persons making the change, and hence if we deem such trade of sale of sufficient importance for publication we print it without consulting anybody. But, while we are at all times anxious for such items, dear reader, do not think for an instant that we are dependent on such news. We have means to print much more than we have space for, and we frequently leave out matter which no doubt to the mass would be more readable, for the sake of obliging our town and countrymen by inserting that which concerns them. And we ask, as a favor to us, should the publication of such business changes fail to meet with the approbation of the either the "trader or trader" that we be informed of the fact, and we shall take the matter under consideration.

A few days ago as Mr. James E. Lynn was taking a walk over his farm for the purpose of seeing how his stock was getting along and was no doubt in deep thought, when he happened to look up to find that a large goat of the "Billy" gender was making for him as fast as his feet could carry him. With but a moment to study what to do, for the goat was most upon him, Mr. Lynn decided to make for the fence, some 50 yards from him and thereby outwit the mad-dened Billy, who seemed intent on damaging his master. Those who know Mr. Lynn are well aware of the fact that he possesses more composure than running quality and of course he was overtaken before he reached the fence before him. Seeing that battle was imminent the gentleman shed his coat and went in for blood. After a desperate fight for 30 minutes or more Mr. Lynn decided that he stood only a chance of coming out second best or perhaps not coming out at all, he began to call for assistance. Being a considerable distance from his house and the wind blowing like a sheet in the opposite direction, he yelled and yelled, alternately some ten minutes longer, when his son heard him and rushed to the scene. By this time the goat was getting a little worsted and with his master's reinforcements he was soon knocked out of the ring. Mr. Lynn was more scared than hurt and acknowledges that he thought his day of doom was upon him.

The Buffalo Spring Cemetery Co., has bought of Mr. Wesley Runt, his house and lot on cemetery hill for $2,500.

The Rowland people were so much impressed with Pascal Porter, the boy preacher, that they kept him with them an entire week.

By the escaping of steam from the boiler of his engine, Engineer Raynor inhaled some and is now suffering severely by the effects of it.

Mrs. JOHN SKEARNS, who is suffering from dropsy of the bowels, gave birth to twins Friday. They were both boys and both died in a short time.

BON BARNETT, brakeman, fell from a box car near Livingston Saturday and scuffed his head up considerably. Otherwise he escaped unhurt.

The Presbyterian church was crowded Sunday afternoon to hear Pascal Porter, the boy preacher. His discourse was considered a very fine one.

In our advertising columns will be found an advertisement containing the description of the horse and buggy recently stolen from James Reid. Besides the State reward of $50 he offers an additional one of $25.

The First National Bank elected its old board of directors with the exception of Mr. Vincent Boring, who resigned on account of his connection with the bank at London. Mr. F. Reid will fill the vacancy.

OWING to a misunderstanding, the Colored Hop Club and George Butler, manager of Odd Fellows' Hall failed to come to an agreement and instead of holding their New Year's ball there they have rented Walton's Opera House.

The following from the San Diego, Cal., Sun will interest the gentleman's many friends here: W. R. Cloyd was the joyful recipient of the most precious New Year's gift he has ever received, a plump 3-year-old daughter. Both mother and daughter are reported doing well.

A poor fellow tells us that the pavement in front of the College is making bow-legged, twisted-backed girls and that humanity demands that it be repaired. Can't the city council enforce its orders or is it absolutely without power? The order to repair was made many months ago.

HOW STAYING William Wilkins, claiming Casey as his home, was caught stealing a couple of hogs from a negro living near Hintonville Friday night and was jailed here Saturday by Police Judge George Ryan. This is a pretty grave charge and Mr. Wilkins will likely go up for a year or so.

The editor, although suffering considerably, might be said to be in flower. He had 22 visitors, a good many of them young girls, one day last week and received five waiters and baskets containing delicacies. A broken leg is not so bad after all, especially when a person has been remembered so frequently and substantially as has the editor.

JOE MEVIN, of Crab Orchard, has bought the interest of Mr. F. W. Dillon, his former partner in the saw mill business, for $2,000 and will continue the business alone. We received by our underground wire the information that Mr. Dillon would like to be postmaster at Crab Orchard. There are already 5 or 6 applicants and the prospects are that the winner will have a hard fight.

As has already been mentioned in your paper I have had to give up the regular pastorate on account of ill-health. I have accepted a position as traveling correspondent for the Union Central Life Insurance Co., of Cincinnati. This, I hope, is only temporary, as I desire as soon as possible to assume the pastorate for which I have endeavored to fit myself and to make my life work. B. B. Mahony.

MR. LUCAS LANSKY returned from Columbia, Mo., Sunday with his two 2-year-old thoroughbreds, Wood Moss and Ballymena, which he purchased there several months ago. They are fine lookers and we hope Mr. Lansky will make the owners of them be anticipators. He will take them, with the rest of the string, to Crab Orchard and put them in training as soon as the weather permits.

D. R. CROSTHER, agent for the Etina Life Insurance Co., of Hartford, Conn., has received a draft for the insurance due on the life of W. H. Hocker amounting to $5,000. This is one of the most reliable Insurance Companies in existence. No Company has cheaper rates or pays better dividends than the Etina. Persons thinking of taking insurance should investigate the plans of the Etina as they are exceedingly liberal.

The president of the Cumberland Valley Land Co., Judge Vincent Boring, called a meeting of his directors here Saturday to obtain instructions with regard to the sale of the popular timber privileges, for which there is now great demand, on the many thousands of acres of land owned by the company in Bell and Harlan counties. Having the utmost confidence in his business sagacity, it was decided that he should do as it seemed most advantageous to the company. President Boring has given great attention to the purchase of these lands and it goes without saying that he has done well in their selection.

HAMILTON steel plows at W. H. Higgins.

The stage plying between this place and Danville, carrying the B. &amp; O. Express as well as passengers, has been discontinued.

Blow ye the coolest breezes, through the leaves and the tresses, sing, oh! sing ye heavenly muses, while I patch your boots and shoes—on my big machine. T. J. Hatcher.

The Stanford Roller Mill Co. elected its old board of directors, with the exception of Messrs. H. S. Withers and T. J. Foster, whose vacancies were filled by Messrs. J. S. Hocker and J. W. Hayden.

The stockholders here in the People's National Bank of Ennis, Texas, are rejoicing over the receipt of the fourth semi-annual dividend of 6 per cent. With a capital of $100,000, it earned $3,407.19, the last six months.

The young people enjoyed an old fashioned bed quilting at Mrs. Fannie Dunn's Friday night. The young ladies did the sewing while the gentlemen threaded needles, fitted on thimbles and the like. This is a sensible move in society.

The Kentucky National Bank of Louisville, of which Dr. J. B. Owsley and J. S. Grimes are directors, is preparing to increase its capital stock from $500,000 to $1,000,000, making it the largest in the State. The bank does a very large business now, has $2,000,000 or more in deposits and $150,000 surplus.

CISTERNS seem to be in bad luck in the west end of town. A few days ago a dog fell into Dr. Reid's and was drowned. Of course the water had to be pumped off and it was ordered to be done. Just as it was commenced a little negro fell in and barely escaped following the dog to the long and happy home. Saturday night hogs got into the editor's premises and rooted the elevator top clean from the cistern. This reminds us to inquire of the Mayor if we have a hog law and to suggest that if we have the marshal be ordered to enforce it. The depredations of the roving, hungry swine are simply unbearable and if the town does not protect us we shall have to try the shot gun protection. Gates and good fences avail nothing when the pesky animals start on a foraging tour.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

STOLEN!

On Sunday night, December 23rd, to the town of Stanford, Ky., a BLACK HORSE, about 15 hands high, 5 years old, both hind feet white, small star in the forehead and strip on nose. He carries his tail, which is very heavy, a little one-sided. He was bred to a saddle-buggy, comparatively new, with blue felt linings. Besides the State reward of $50, I will give $25 for the recovery of the horse, buggy and thief. JAS. C. REID, Stanford, Ky.

NOTICE!

On the 15th January, 1889, I will sell my entire Stock of Goods for the benefit of those to whom I am indebted. My keys will be placed in the hands of T. R. Walton, who will see that the goods are sold and disbursed between my creditors. I am compelled to do this because I have no trade. Those I buy from in this town buy nothing from me. This is very mortifying to me, next to the first time I have been behind since I was forced out. I have always paid my debts and all that I owe shall be paid. I don't want to make a regular assignment, but all my goods shall go to their creditors. Respectfully, J. T. HARRIS.
